The Webb House has been a staple at Missouri Town Living History Museum for decades. It is one of our most iconic colonial buildings and it is the first building that visitors see upon arrival. Support allows us to purchase period furniture to replicate how the home would have looked like in the 1850's. Our plan is to make this space more visible and interactive for our guests, while maintaining historical accuracy.

The Preserving America Partners program furthers the mission through a philanthropic initiative aimed at supporting large-scale, multi-year endeavors that create new or enhance existing programming at historical sites focused on the period from 1607 to 1876. By fostering collaborative partnerships through the Preserving America Partners program, Americana Corner aims to reinforce the legacy of our nation's past while inspiring future generations to engage with history in meaningful ways.
